

Baltimore Acclaims Eisenhower Attack On Truman Policies

By JACK BELL

Aboard The Eisenhower Special — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower headed for Dixie today after tumultuous acclaim in Baltimore last night for his slashing attack on the Truman administration's defense policies.

The Republican presidential nominee — speaking from his background as a general of the Army — told a howling crowd of 12,000 persons who jammed Baltimore's Fifth Regiment Armory that armed services unification is a virtual failure.

Apposed to UMT

Continuing his blistering indictment, Eisenhower said instead of duplication the United States has reaped "triplication" from efforts to mould its fighting forces into one.

He adopted the same line pursued by Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, with whom he recently has joined forces, in opposing universal military training so long as the Korean War continues the necessity for the military draft.

Almost forgotten for the moment was the political battle over the acceptance of privately-raised expense funds by his vice presidential running mate and the counter-attack on a Democratic salary ante raised in Illinois with the approval of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

No Word From Adlai

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, indicated through his campaign manager, Wilson Wyatt, that he plans a "further statement" on the fund raised to increase the compensation of Illinois state appointive officials who otherwise could not afford to take such jobs.

Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, head of Eisenhower's advisory campaign committee said yesterday if Stevenson didn't make public the names of the contributors and beneficiaries it would prove the Democratic nominee had "something to hide."

Eisenhower made it clear, during a day of whistle stopping in West Virginia and Maryland, that Nixon is securely on the ticket with him after the latter's explanation of his acceptance of some $18,000 in expense money raised by wealthy Californians.

Nixon Calls Stevenson Chlorophyll Candidate

By MORRIS LANDSBERG

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Sen. Richard Nixon was greeted with shouts and applause during his speech here last night when he promised a counter-offensive against the Democrats who accused him of wrongdoing in accepting an $18,235 political fund.

The Republican candidate for vice president, saying he's had a "rough time" himself, turned his guns on Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee. He spoke of Stevenson as "the chlorophyll candidate" and demanded a full, public airing of the Illinois governor's own special fund.

Interrupted By Cheers

What Nixon described as "an important speech to me" drew an estimated 6,000 people. It was his first since flying away from Wheeling, W. Va., yesterday with a 112 to 0 vote by the Republican National Committee to retain him on the national ticket.

The California senator said if there was any question whether he would continue his attacks against crime and Communists in the government the answer was: he's going to redouble his efforts.

Frequent applause and cheers interrupted his speech in Utah's capital city. There was foot stomping once. The 6,000 figure was estimated by the owner of the downtown ballroom where Nixon gave his address.

In Texas Tonight

Nixon announced he would deliver a "major" talk in Amarillo, Tex., tonight on the dangers of subversion from within. He is due there at 6 p. m., CST, after campaigning at Ogden, Utah, and Colorado Springs, Colo.

Bergen At Home In Decatur, Mich.

DECATUR, Mich. (AP)—A young man who left this Van Buren County village to seek his fortune—and found it—came back today. And he brought with him the two dumb ones who helped him make that fortune—Charles McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd.

This is "Edgar Bergen Day" in Decatur. The quick-witted ventriloquist greeted old friends and neighbors who knew Bergen before he went away off to Chicago to find fame. There to greet him, too, were his former school teachers, the town marshal and the town officer.

Bergen will be feted at a dinner tonight at Decatur High School, but first he'll conduct a street show for the town folk. Then he and his troupe will go to the Cozy theatre to stage a formal show.

Ike And Mamie Greet Southland In Pajamas

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower began his campaign invasion of the south today with a pajama appearance.

The Republican presidential nominee was awakened when his campaign train stopped at Salisbury, N. C. before sunrise to take on ice.

When a crowd of about 200 persons chanted "We want Ike," the general came to the back platform in pajamas and wearing a maroon robe. He shook hands and said: "Wait a minute and I'll try to get Mamie."

Mrs. Eisenhower came to the private car door in a negligee, her hair in curlers, and waved to the crowd.

One man shouted: "You even look good in the morning, Mamie." Eisenhower said his staff would "give me the devil if they knew I was up—I'm supposed to be resting."

Copies of newspapers, coins, a roll of parishioners, and a parchment scroll with names of the Pope, Bishop church pastors, president and other government officials were placed in a copper container inside the stone before it was sealed with mortar by Bishop Noa. About 400 persons attended the ceremonies, at Eighth avenue south and 23rd street, last night.

Rev. Fr. Joseph Guertin of St. Mary parish in Sault Ste. Marie, a former pastor of St. Ann church here, holds the bishop's robe while prayers are recited. At the bishop's left is Rev. Fr. Arnold Cassanova of Marquette, secretary to Most Reverend Noa, who was master of ceremonies. Chants were sung by visiting clergymen and St. Ann choir under direction of Miss Bernadette Cossette.

The ceremony began at the site of the new altar, where a wooden cross was erected, and concluded with blessing of the walls by the bishop, after the stone was in place.

Bishop Noa spoke last night on the role of the church in the lives of parishioners, in maintaining decency before God and with other men, and urged St. Ann parishioners to be as "living stones" in a spiritual house. (Daily Press Photo)

Gigantic Communist Peace Offensive To Begin This Weekend

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Foreign News Analyst

Opening barrages of a gigantic world Communist peace offensive will be fired this week end. The thunder of the propaganda guns will mark the first phase of a new Soviet tactical assault on the United States.

For about 30 countries—those in Asia and those such as Canada and Latin America bordering the Pacific—delegates have assembled in Peiping, capital of Communist China, to do the bidding of the Moscow-Peiping axis in this latest campaign.

Climax Dec. 5

The countries "represented" by the Communist-inspired delegates have a population of more than a billion and a half people and cover two-thirds of the earth's surface.

Plans for this assault were concocted in July, under Soviet guidance, at the conference of the Communist World Council of Peace in Berlin. The Peiping meeting is a curtain raiser to the mighty peace offensive which reaches its climax Dec. 5 in Vienna with a world congress.

There is little doubt that the offensive is tied in with the decision of Moscow to summon an All-Union Congress of the Soviet Communist party Oct. 5, the first such congress in 13 years.

Boy Coming Out Of 15-Day Coma

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Fifteen days after he was beaten into a coma by a savage attacker, Kalamazoo College freshman Arnold Klump regained partial consciousness yesterday, doctors at Bronson Hospital reported today.

A physician said the 19-year-old football player was "presently out of danger" and that he had a good chance to survive.

The physician said Klump still was unable to talk or to recognize friends.

Police, who have been conducting massive lie detector tests of all persons on the Kalamazoo College campus at the time of the attack, said they would not attempt to question Klump until he has recovered further.

Officers said that all 70 persons on the campus last Sept. 10 when Klump was bludgeoned would be considered "under suspicion."

That would include 35 football players here for early practice and 35 other advance students.

Hope For Peace Seems Slim In Mossadegh Note

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States officials saw some hope today—but not very much—in Premier Mossadegh's latest proposal for a settlement of his country's oil dispute with Britain.

The Iranian Premier's tough talking note—he appeared to imply his country might go Communist unless his demands were met—was received here yesterday, addressed to President Truman. It was in the form of a copy of a detailed set of counter proposals which he addressed initially to British Prime Minister Churchill.

British Offer Rejected

The message to the two Western leaders was considered tough in three respects:

1. Mossadegh rejected as "inequitable" a joint settlement plan which Truman and Churchill placed before him on Aug. 30.
2. He waved the apparent Communist threat.
3. He gave only 10 days from today for an answer.

The implied threat to yield to communism was seen in this paragraph:

"In the present circumstances the Iranian nation may follow one of two roads; either it should endeavor to improve the social conditions and ameliorate the situation of the deprived classes, something that would be impossible without the income from oil, or, if this road should remain blocked, it should surrender itself to probable future events which would be to the detriment of world peace."

Half Ton Of Gold Stolen In Canada

TORONTO (AP)—A nation-wide alarm was out today for nearly a half ton of gold, valued at about $200,000, which vanished after it was placed in an unguarded, padlocked cargo shed at nearby Malton Airport terminal.

Police said they believed the gold had been stolen but there appeared to be some question as to where the theft might have taken place. Officials were closed-mouthed about details of both the disappearance and the subsequent investigation.

If the bullion had been stolen, it was Canada's third major gold theft in four months.

Packed in six boxes weighing a total of 848 pounds, the gold apparently vanished late Wednesday. Police were not called in, however, until yesterday morning.

The boxes were part of a shipment of 10 in transit to Montreal. Only four of the ten, containing about $150,000 worth of bullion, were checked in at the final destination.

Two Dead, One Injured In Train Collision At Siding Near Owosso

OWOSSO (AP)—Two crew members were killed and a third injured early today when two Grand Trunk Western mixed passenger-freight trains collided at a siding five miles west of here. No passengers were injured.

Killed were Joseph Warren Beer 56, of Detroit, engineer of a westbound Detroit to Muskegon train carrying one passenger and Robert Morrison, 27, of Detroit, fireman on the westbound train.

Breaks Leg In Jump

George Walaskey, 30, fireman, also of Detroit, suffered a broken leg when he jumped from the cab of an eastbound Muskegon — to Detroit train.

Sixteen passengers on the eastbound train were "hardly shaken up" by the collision, state police said.

J. R. Albertson, brakeman on the eastbound train, said his train had pulled on to the siding to await the passage of the westbound train.

"The westbound train," Albertson said, "approached the siding at an excessive speed. The engine started swaying and sideswiped the third car of my train."

Trapped In Cab

The engine and three cars of the westbound train were derailed. The eastbound train escaped damage save for the third car which bore the brunt of the impact.

Beer and Morrison were trapped in the cab of the derailed locomotive. Morrison was pinned between the engine's throttle and a fence post on which the engine fell. Railroad yardmen worked three hours to free his body.

Grand Trunk Western officials said the collision tore up several sections of track on the mainline between Detroit and Grand Rapids. Traffic was to be rerouted via Battle Creek until repairs are completed, expected to take until late tonight.

Stevenson Promises To Speak Up About His Illinois Kitty

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson promised to speak up about his controversial fund for supplementing salaries of Illinois officials as he prepared today for 11,548 miles of rugged campaigning through 17 states.

The Democratic presidential nominee, starting the semi-finals of his campaign with a dash into Indiana, also had an opportunity to open up on the political alliance between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Hoosier Sen. William E. Jenner.

Needling Irks Nominee

The word from Wilson Wyatt, Stevenson's campaign manager, was that the Illinois governor definitely "will have something further to say" about the special fund that has become a target for a heavy, daily bombardment from the Republican camp.

Wyatt wasn't going so far as to say the Democratic candidate for the White House was really worried about repeated GOP suggestions that Stevenson may have "something to hide." Yet the fact that the governor agreed to say something more indicated that Stevenson was squirming a bit under the Republican needling.

No Names Given

So far, Stevenson has declined to reveal how big the fund was, who contributed to it, or who got what amounts from it. What he has said about it boils (Continued on Page 6)

WCTU Raps TV As Saloon Lure

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A poke at television and other "inducements to drink" in taverns was taken today by a National Woman's Christian Temperance Union officer.

Mrs. Blanche Butts Runion of Evanston, Ill., urged state legislatures to follow the precedent of the Canadian Province of Quebec in banning inducements in taverns as "lures for drinkers." She spoke at the opening session of the 78th annual WCTU meeting here.

"Bars in the United States," she said, "are using every device for customer bait. They were the first to install television and remain the only business using it for the purpose generally, supplementary to other kinds of shows."

Mrs. Runion said the law in Quebec bans shows of any kind in taverns to attract or hold customers.

New Russian Envoy Hurries Right Into Washington Whirl

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin, new Soviet envoy to the United States, lost no time in joining the Washington social whirl.

A few hours after he presented his credentials to President Truman yesterday, Zarubin attended a party at the Norwegian Embassy honoring Prime Minister Oscar Torp of Norway.

Zarubin impressed other partygoers as a more affable diplomat than his predecessor, Alexander S. Panyushkin. He chatted about such matters as his previous visits to the United States, his study of the English language, his previous assignments in Canada and England and non-controversial subjects.

Breweries Give Their Side On TV Beer Shows

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Investigating congressmen today hear the brewers' side of what they say is a growing controversy over television and radio advertising of beer.

Clinton M. Hester, representing the U. S. Brewers Foundation, testifies at an opening hearing of an House interstate subcommittee which is surveying all "objectionable" material on the air.

Chairman Harris (D. Ark.) told newsmen the majority of complaints received from the public against TV and radio programs, concerned beer advertising.

Immorality First

He said a new petition containing 2,000 names had just reached his office from Eldorado, Ark., opposing any liquor advertising over the air or in magazines. Arkansas has local option and is partially dry, he said.

The subcommittee is primarily concerned with broadcast programs considered immoral or those over-emphasizing crime, he said, but it also has authority to probe beer, cigarette and other advertising.

Today's hearing winds up the current phase of public sessions, and the group will recess until after the November elections, Harris added.

Against Censorship

Other witnesses today include Miss Alice Keith, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the National Academy of Broadcasting Foundation and a representative of the Federal Communications Commission. The commission has considerable authority in licensing radio and TV stations.

Harris said he has been impressed by the extensive machinery established by major TV networks to catch objectionable material before it gets on the air.

He said the subcommittee has not discussed the recommendations it will make before the end of this year. The group is on record against any form of censorship but it has authority to suggest any legislation it decides might be required. Some members have indicated belief that a voluntary code of ethics, adopted six months ago by most TV stations, might be sufficient to regulate the industry.

Colombia Police Kill Churchgoer

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—The Evangelical Confederation of Protestant Churches has accused Colombian police of shooting and killing a youth and stabbing 2 others during a district prayer meeting.

The purported attack was one of 30 cases of religious persecution in this predominantly Catholic country between June 21 and Aug. 31, the confederation reported yesterday.

It charged also that Wade Coggin, a member of the U. S. Christian and Missionary Alliance Mission, was beaten with a machete by a civilian while the missionary was conducting a religious service. In other incidents, it was charged, Protestants were beaten, abused, insulted and jailed.

The confederation, a group of 17 Protestant denominations, has issued periodic reports of trouble here between Protestants and Catholics. The government has replied in the past that it deplores the religious strife but cannot guarantee protection to the Protestants if they try to win converts in what is officially a Catholic state.

Laws Governing Minors Outlined

Child-labor provisions in the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act are designed for the protection of children, Hagle Quarnstrom, Delta County superintendent of schools, today reminded parents.

"Each year several inquiries concerning the child labor regulations are made," Quarnstrom pointed out, adding that in many cases "parents and students misunderstand the provisions."

The act prohibits employment of children under 16 in agriculture, or in any other type of occupation covered by the law, during the hours school is in session. Working hours for 14 and 15-year-old students are closely regulated by the act.

However, students employed by their parents or guardians are exempt, Quarnstrom stated.

Agriculture is the number one stumbling block in efforts of the Department of Labor to obtain compliance with child-labor provisions of the act, Quarnstrom noted. In 1951, a total of 3,465 children under 16 were found employed in agriculture during school hours. In 1950, the total was 728 children.

Children miss out on educational opportunities which the law provides for them, Quarnstrom states, if they work in agriculture when they should be in school.

"Greater efforts must be exerted to make sure young people receive the protection Congress intended them to have when passing the amendments," William R. McComb, a Department of Labor administrator, has reported.

McComb states that the extent of violations disclosed by department of labor investigations show that too many farmers fail to understand that they must change their hiring policies to avoid violating the law.

The department of labor reports that under-age children most frequently work on five crops—cotton, strawberries, potatoes, tomatoes and onions.

TALKING WITH COUNSELOR—Six students in Escanaba Junior High School talk over vocational and educational plans with the ninth grade guidance counselor, Harvey Reinholz, of Appleton, Wis. Reinholz, who is beginning his second year in the Escanaba school system, is a

JHS Students To Get Help In Deciding On Vocations

Deciding what courses to take in high school, and what jobs to prepare for, will be made easier for Escanaba students if a new vocational guidance program begun this year at Escanaba Junior High School works out as planned.

The counseling service, new in this school on a formal basis, was begun only this fall and now has 320 students participating.

It aims to help students learn of their abilities and interests, to help them realize they are social beings with both responsibilities and rights, and to assist them in determining opportunities and qualifications in various fields of work.

Veterans in Charge

The program for the first year will be on an experimental basis to enable students and the faculty to fit the service to student needs.

Two young veterans of World War II are in charge. They are Robert Eul, who is beginning his third year here, and Harvey Reinholz, who is beginning his second year with the Escanaba school system.

Reinholz, who was wounded by a sniper's bullet while fighting with the British for Guam, took special guidance work while studying for a bachelor of science degree from Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis.

Tests Given

Robert Eul, who received his bachelor of science degree from Milwaukee State Teachers College, served with the U. S. Army information and education service during World War II. His job was to help soldiers obtain high school diplomas and to enroll for education courses after separation from military service. In addition, he assisted the guidance director at the Shorewood, Wis., public schools, while engaged in student teaching.

Reinholz is in charge of ninth grade counseling and Eul works with the eighth graders.

Standard tests of aptitudes, interest inventories and other guidance tests have been administered to students participating in the program. The classes meet at least once a week, but students are given both individual and group counseling.

Students Know Abilities

"We want students to realize it isn't easy to grow up, and that it's a long process," Eul states. "We hope to help them make better choices by investigating various fields of work, both in class and on their own," he explains.

Reinholz stresses that "things are so competitive, students need an insight into practical things." He says students should know what qualifications are required in various lines of work before they enter training programs. Otherwise they are apt to drop out or fail later.

"Most students know where their abilities lie by the time they are in the eighth and ninth grade," Reinholz states.

Films Are Used

Proper group relations, cooperativeness, patriotism and other socially desirable attitudes are discussed, and a realistic attitude toward vocations and education is encouraged.

Reinholz says he often hears the comment that teachers encourage students to continue school, "so that there are always jobs for teachers." He rejoinder, he says, is "How far can you advance in civilian or military life with the education you have?"

Film strips are utilized in the guidance classes, and plans are being made to have community workers speak to students. Nurses, employment officials and personnel workers are among those being considered.

Many Questions

The guidance program at JHS will be a two-year program for each student. In the eighth grade he will receive help on selection of courses for future school work; and in the ninth grade more emphasis will be placed on vocational counseling.

The program will be integrated with Senior High School programs of study and counseling. Senior High School counselors will continue to help ninth-graders during the spring, in selection of EHS courses.

The importance of guidance in school programs was brought out in the recent survey of Escanaba schools conducted with the assistance of the University of Michigan bureau of school services.

Students appear to like the program, even though it doesn't mean time out from other classes. They are eager with questions and frequently use guidance materials in the library.

"Even if they change their mind about what vocation they'll follow, the work done here will help them investigate other fields, the opportunities they offer and qualifications necessary," Eul observes.

Both counselors point out that some parents can take care of vocational counseling for their youngsters adequately. "But many lack time and the necessary background to fill the needs of students," they note.

Personals

Harvey Reinholz, Escanaba Junior High School teacher, was dismissed today from the Veterans' hospital in Iron Mountain, where he received treatment for leg wounds. He will return to his classes Monday.

Amendment Issues Are Important To Voters Of Upper Peninsula

VOTERS of Michigan will receive an amendment ballot in the Nov. 4 election containing three proposals which are of vital interest, the latter two proposals of particular interest to the residents of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

In the heat of the election campaign for President and Governor and all of the various offices being contested, it is easy to lose sight of the merits of the amendment proposals. Every voter and particularly every Upper Peninsula voter should thoroughly understand the amendment proposals and their meaning before the voter enters the election booth.

Proposal No. 1 is a suggested amendment to the search and seizure provision of the Michigan Constitution to permit the use as evidence in criminal proceedings of narcotic drugs seized without a search warrant. Specifically exempt is the introduction in evidence of illegal narcotics seized in dwellings without a search warrant. This is in recognition of the time-honored principle that a man's dwelling, no matter how humble, is his castle.

The proposal is identical to the statute that governs the use of illegal dangerous weapons. It is simply a procedure designed to provide law enforcement officers with badly-needed authority to combat the growing illegal traffic in narcotics. As such, it is a proposal that deserves public approval.

Of greater interest and importance to Upper Peninsula voters are Proposals No. 2 and No. 3, which are concerned with the reapportionment of the Michigan Legislature.

Proposal No. 2 is a proposal adverse to the interests of the Upper Peninsula. It provides for the reapportionment of the Legislature strictly on a population basis and it has been advocated by the CIO and Governor Williams. The CIO's greatest strength, of course, is in the industrial areas and this method of reapportionment would vastly increase the CIO's power in the Michigan Legislature.

It would greatly reduce the legislative representation of the Upper Peninsula. As such, it should be opposed by every Upper Peninsula resident, whether he is a labor man, a business man, an industrialist, a housewife, or whatever he or she may be. The traditional recognition of area as a factor in legislative apportionment is completely ignored in this amendment.

Proposal No. 3 also concerns legislative reapportionment but this amendment proposal recognizes area as well as population. It would preserve for the Upper Peninsula most if not all of its present legislative representation. This amendment deserves a "Yes" vote by every Upper Peninsula resident and every person in the state who wants to be fair minded. It provides for proper recognition of the population basis in determining the house of representatives but preserves a senate which gives proper recognition to area as well as population.

Be sure to "Vote No" on Proposal No. 2 and to "Vote Yes" on Proposal No. 3. Talk about this issue among your friends and neighbors to be sure that they fully understand the importance of these proposals to them.

Civil Report Deserves World's Attention

THE Research and Policy Committee of the Committee for Economic Development comes up with a report of interest to everyone concerned about the present world situation, as who isn't.

And being what is, the committee carries some weight. Its membership reads like a who's who of American business—Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co., Bankers Trust Co. of New York, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Can Co., Ford Motor Co., General Electric, General Foods, Corning Glass, and several dozen more of the same.

The main point made in the report is that poor and shaky governments in the free world are a greater danger even than the threat of a war started by Russia. The principal threat to the security of the United States and the free world, the report says, "is that the economic weakness and political instability of many non-Communist countries will lead to piecemeal Communist gains and periodic crises which could undermine the morale of free countries and isolate the United States."

"This, rather than the deliberate initiation of general war by the Soviet Union appears to be the greatest and most probable danger to our aims in the next few years."

"Unless prevented by successful policies, positive as well as defensive, this deterioration could lead, after a few years, to a most serious danger of general war, and even to a situation in which the Soviets' relative power had been so augmented by territorial gains or alliances in Europe and Asia that they could successfully attack the Western Hemisphere."

The best thing about the report is that it not only points out world dangers but offers concrete suggestions for combatting them.

On the defensive side it says that continued military programs among the free nations are essential to keep communism from disrupting "the task of building the economic and political foundations of a free and healthy society here and abroad."

But it warned that primary emphasis on military build-up can be "self-defeating." On the positive side, the report says the main job of America is to increase its own economic health and to help other countries to solve their economic and political problems.

More specifically, it recommends some form of political union for Europe. Regarding Asia, "There is need for the United States to assert vigorously, in the name of the whole free world, an interest in social and economic reform in free Asia and to support that interest with practical action through United Nations agencies and otherwise."

Too many of the "vote for me" speeches are enough to give a man a campaign in the neck.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—General Eisenhower's period of indecision regarding his vice-presidential running-mate was due largely to the fact that he was torn between a crossfire of advice from two groups of backers.

One was the professional politicians who accompanied him on the train. These, led by GOP national chairman Arthur Summerfield, fought hard to keep Nixon on the ticket. With him were Senator Seaton of Nebraska, Congressman Hugh Scott of Philadelphia, while Milton Eisenhower, the general's brother, a non-professional, was emphatically in favor of dropping Nixon and General Wilton Persons, one of Ike's old military friends, was on the fence.

But the enthusiastic amateurs who got on the train during its stops en route urged that Nixon be taken off. These were the leaders who had rounded up the big write-in votes for Eisenhower during the primaries, who sometimes had voted Democratic and who represented the independent bloc which can swing an election.

They felt that the general must give an example to the nation, must show that he meant business right at the start by cleaning out any taint or even suspicion of corruption. They argued that if the Nixon "expense gifts" had been known at Chicago he would not have been nominated, and that if the general put action to words the election would be in the bag.

IN THE DARK

One factor which hampered Eisenhower's decision was the fact that his advisers kept the Nixon news from him for 18 hours. Though they got the first query on the New York Post story via the United Press on Thursday afternoon, they did not tell the general about it until next morning.

And since the general seldom reads the newspapers carefully, he did not learn the bad news—even though his advisers sat up until 3 a. m. at Omaha trying to decide what to do while the man chiefly concerned slept peacefully in the next car, blissfully ignorant that the worst political storm in fifty years of presidential campaigns was about to break over his head.

Next morning, the general was told what had happened and at first it was suggested that perhaps Senator Nixon should fly to Kansas City or St. Louis to talk things over. Finally it was decided that Senator Seaton of Nebraska would get off the train at the next stop and phone Nixon—which he did.

Nixon, when reached by telephone, had some strong opinions. He asked that no action be taken until he could give a full statement, and he put some of his staff on the phone to tell of the big crowds he'd been getting. They indicated that the people around Eisenhower had buck fever. The thing to do, they urged, was to play down the story and proceed as if nothing had happened.

KANSAS CITY CONFERENCE

That night, at the Muehlebach Hotel in Harry Truman's home town, the general called a staff conference in "the little White House," the penthouse used by President Truman when he comes back to Missouri. Truman's picture had been removed, though the piano on which he sometimes played the "Missouri Waltz" remained.

At the meeting were Chairman Summerfield, Gov. Adams, Milton Eisenhower, president of Penn State College; Jim Hagerty, press secretary; Senator Seaton, Maj. Gen. "Slick" Persons, Brig. Gen. Robert Cutler and Eisenhower himself. They decided to have the general make another statement, then wait for Nixon to explain all. It was also decided that the general himself should meet the press in an off-the-record conference and reiterate his determination for honesty in government. Next day this was done.

In doing so, the general, by pure coincidence, used the same expression used by President Harding in defending some of his associates—"clean as a hound's tooth."

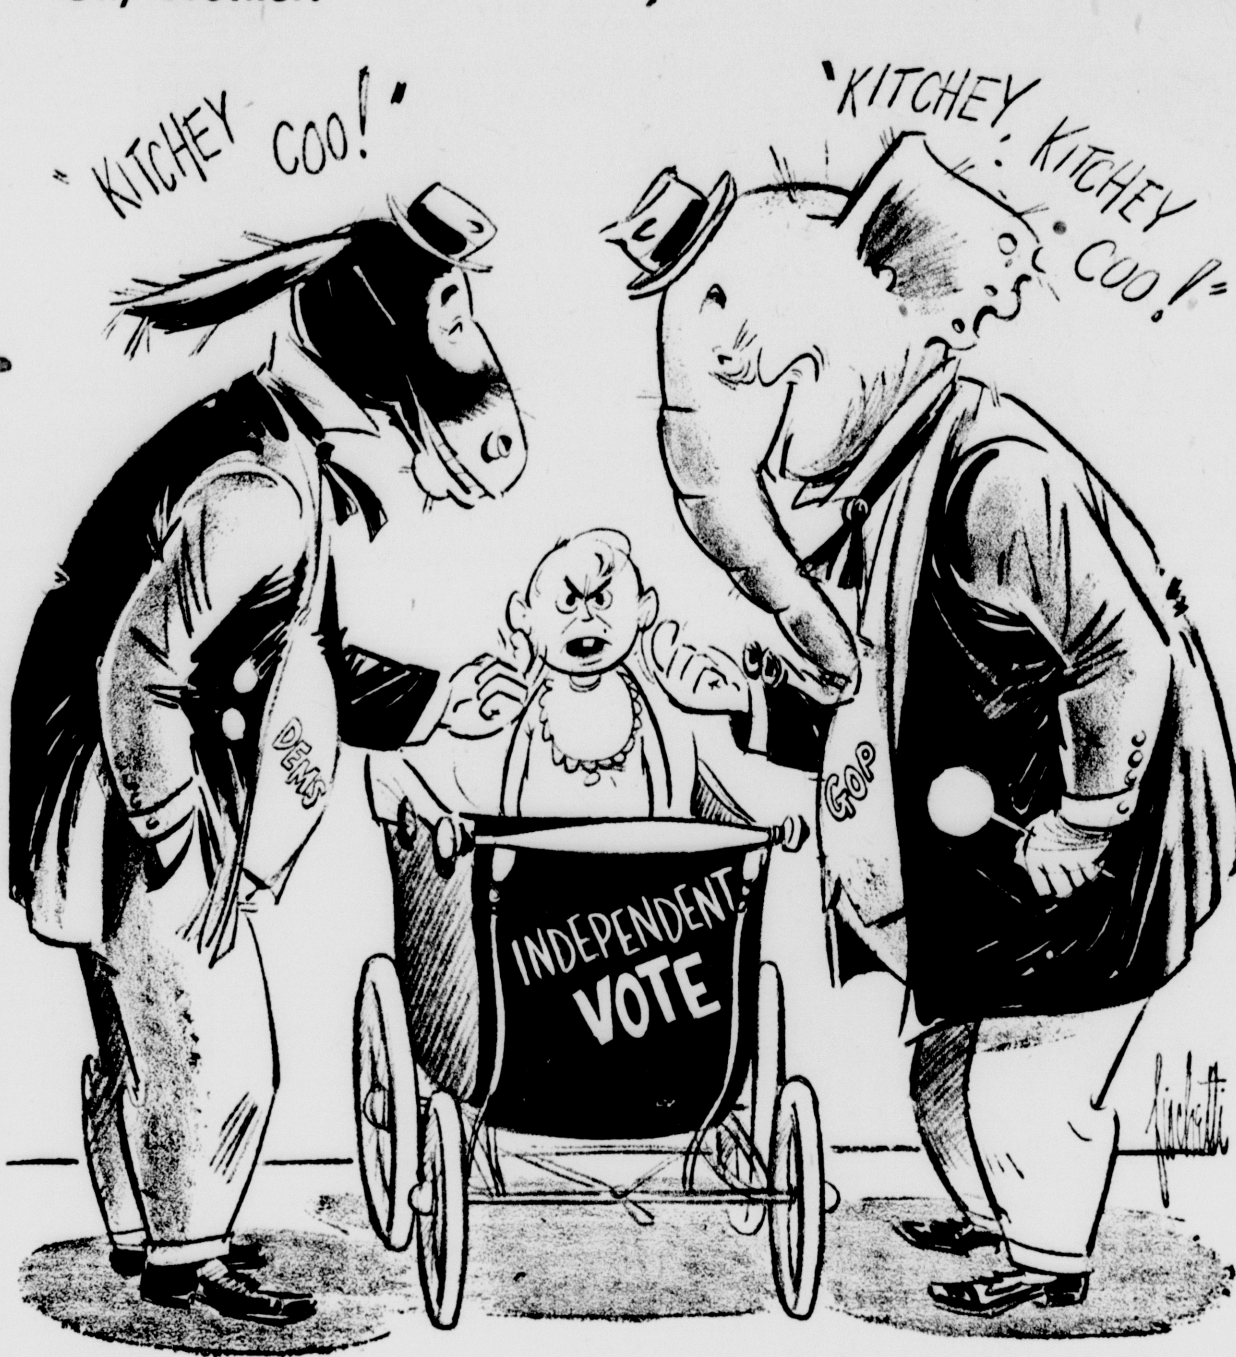

Meanwhile Senator Taft was really sore at the general for not backing Nixon at the start. Taft thought that Eisenhower's tightrope walking was what made the Nixon affair a big headline and a big issue.

IKE'S IRK

The general meanwhile was irked not only at his own staff for not telling him of the Nixon "gifts" when the news first broke, but also sore at Nixon himself because he had shot off to the press without clearing with him. The general especially didn't like Nixon's first statement blaming "Communists and crooks" for the newspaper stories.

One voice which kept urging the general to drop Nixon was that of Bert Andrews, ace political writer for the New York Herald Tribune who originally introduced Nixon to Eisenhower. Andrews felt that Nixon's position had materially hurt the ticket and that the general would be sure of election if he showed he was against any suspicion of unethical conduct.

"Oh, Brother!"

The British Way:

Barrage Of Heckling Popular Weapon In British Elections

LONDON —(NEA)— Heckling is a phase of British election campaigning which is seldom seen in such spirited form outside Britain itself.

In fact, Webster defines heckling as a Scottish word meaning "to badger with questions, comments or gibes, as a candidate for Parliament."

A candidate who wishes to win election to Parliament has to submit to several weeks of verbal artillery. His opponents bombard him with questions at every public meeting at which he appears, and the "neutrals" demand to know where he stands on everything from bingo games to the situation on Mars.

He is expected to answer cogently—with facts, good humor and grace. If he loses his temper, or says he doesn't know, he's a goner.

The candidate doesn't often have to put up with physical assault, though the ripe egg and tomato have their role even in tightly-rationalized Britain. In Glasgow, where passions run high at election times, the stink-bomb and flour-bomb often play persuasive parts at meetings. In some university towns candidates have on occasions been temporarily "kidnapped" by hilarious students.

Heckling finds its height at the street-corner political meetings, another tradition of British politics. Here the candidate has to answer questions, often rude and pointed, from electors who are practically breathing in his face.

Speaking on Tower Hill, London, last year, one of Churchill's supporters, Hugh Slesser, was heckled by a group of men, apparently Communists. "How do you know you're sane?" one of them kept shouting.

After half an hour of this, Slesser retorted, "I don't. How do you know you're sane?" "Me?" said the Communist indignantly, "here's my discharge card"—and he flourished a document from an insane asylum.

In the interval between public meetings, the candidate is expected to go around ringing doorbells, offering to answer householders' questions.

All this adds up to an intimacy of contact between candidates and electors. By the time polling day comes around, most electors know everything there is to know about the views, looks and manners of the rival candidates.

Interest is high. Everybody votes who possibly can. At the last General Election, 28,555,492 British voters went to the polls, out of a total electorate of 34,914,922 or 82 per cent. This percentage stacks up favorably against any nation in the free world.

Radio and TV viewers in Britain aren't treated to any party conventions. There aren't any. Each local branch of the parties picks its own candidate, and that's all there is to it. The parties do hold annual conferences, but these are devoted entirely to national policy, and preparing a party platform.

The importance which women play in British politics is indicated by the fact that women voters outnumber the men by more than one million in Britain. Over 18½ million women were eligible to vote in last year's General Election, compared with a little over 17 million men voters.

The trade unions also play a powerful part in British General Elections. Because of their close tie-up with the Labor party they are probably able to swing more votes than the American trade unions in U. S. elections.

There are some 9,000,000 trade unionists in Britain, representing nearly a quarter of the 35,000,000 men and women eligible to vote in the British General Election.

British voters have a sense of personal contact with their Member of Parliament through the intimacy and face-to-face methods of the electoral campaign. When Britain's John Doe gets mad about anything, his first reaction is often to write to his Member of Parliament or to go and see him.

Any elector has the right to march into the House of Commons when the House is sitting, tell the policeman his name and ask for his M. P. to come and talk to him.

M. P.'s have to put up with a lot of crackpots, of course, so there is an unofficial screening system. One of the greatest social delights is to have tea with one's M. P. on the famous terrace overlooking the River Thames.

There have been several cases in recent years of M. P.'s switching from one party to another, after their election. They usually resigned, in order to let their constituents vote on their actions. Several of them were re-elected. British electors don't go for rubber stamp Members of Parliament.

Good Evening...

WITH FLAGS FLYING — Escanaba's flag-flying period of conventions ends today after nearly two weeks of almost continuous display.

The city places the flags on lamp standards along Ludington Street for holidays, celebrations, conventions. The recent events, some over-lapping, occurred in the following order:

Regional Fire Training School, the Lakes States Logging Congress, the Michigan Association of School Administrators, the Upper Peninsula Federation of Women's Clubs, and the campaign visit of Senator Robert A. Taft.

It was a whining-ding round of activity for all parties concerned and again upheld Escanaba's reputation as the town that can cope with a convention as easily as Junior disposes of a banana split special.

CAMPAIGN DINNERS—Senator Taft's reception at Escanaba was one of the warmest accorded a visiting politician in a long while.

His arrival at the airport was received with an ovation, workers met on a tour of industries were friendly and listened to what he had to say, while the Republican out-pouring for the noon luncheon at K. of C. hall represented every county in the Upper Peninsula.

Taft was genuinely touched by the warm-hearted reception, reports Mrs. G. W. Traverse of Escanaba, chairman of the Delta County Republican Committee.

"What is the most disagreeable part of campaigning?" Mrs. Traverse asked Sen. Taft during a momentary lull in the before-luncheon round of industries.

"Ham dinners," replied the Ohio senator.

Mrs. Traverse did not pursue the subject. She knew that when Mr. Taft sat down to luncheon that noon he would be served—ham!

THE PERSONAL TOUCH—There were two baskets of flowers behind Taft at the luncheon. Both were impressive—but Taft had on the table before him one flower that he perhaps valued more highly than all the others.

It was a single red carnation with a bit of fern. The carnation is Ohio's state flower.

The flower was the gift of Joe Groos, gardener at the Escanaba Paper Company plant, who has made the grounds there most attractive.

Sen. Taft placed the flower in his buttonhole. A note accompanying it, written by Mrs. Traverse and telling the name of the giver, he tucked into a pocket.

Note: Mead Corporation, parent concern of Escanaba Paper Company, has its headquarters in Chillicothe of the senator's home state.

STUDENT REACTION — Taft spoke briefly to students in Gladstone and Escanaba high schools in the afternoon before his departure by plane for Lower Michigan.

Afterward we asked a couple students what they thought of Taft.

"Okay," said a boy. "He boosted Eisenhower and Nixon. About half the students were there. I guess the others are Democrats."

A girl who heard Taft couldn't remember a thing he said.

"I was busy trying to see if he looked like his pictures," she explained.

"He looked just like one of the businessmen up the street," another student said in evident disappointment.

WHAT TO EXPECT—What the American people expect and what they get in politicians is a subject of interest.

Sen. Taft or "Mr. Republican" should appear as he does—representative of the solidly conservative element in our citizenry. But of course Taft is not the Republican candidate for president. He lost the No. 1 spot on the ballot to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower at the Republican convention.

Neither Eisenhower, Adlai Stevenson, the Democrat's choice for president, or their vice presidential running mates look anything like the cartoonist's conception of a politician—no string ties, wing collars or stogies.

Perhaps before the campaigns are over the Upper Peninsula will see Stevenson or Sparkman on the Democratic side. The last time the Democrats sent one of its first string to the U. P. was in 1940. Henry Wallace sought and won the vice presidency only to lose out to Truman in 1944.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

THE READERS ASK QUESTIONS Buffalo, N. Y.—"In asking for Mr. Smith on the telephone, should one say, 'Let me speak to Mr. Smith,' or 'Let me speak with Mr. Smith?'"—A. R.

Answer.—It all depends. If you are, say, Mr. Smith's boss and have in mind to deliver a lecture to him, you would properly say, "Let me speak to him." But if you had in mind to carry on a conversation with him, you would say, "Let me speak with Mr. Smith." That is the technical distinction. However, common usage favors the preposition to, regardless of distinction.

Portchester, N. Y.—"Please settle an argument. 'A' says, 'I drank my milk' and 'I have drunk my milk' are correct. 'B' says, 'I drank my milk' and 'I have drunk my milk.' Is drunk ever used as the past tense of drink?"—Mrs. T. G.

Answer.—Not for many years. Several centuries ago, drunk was not only the past participle of drink, but was also used in the past tense. That use has now become obsolete; drunk is now the only form for the past tense.

Montgomery, Ala.—"Which is correct, 'Either you or I (are is)' right?"—C. C. L.

Answer.—You have managed to miss the right answer. The rule is that when two nominatives, connected by "or," are of different persons, the verb should agree with the nearest nominative. Thus the sentence should read "Either you or I am right." Such constructions are undesirable, however. Privately one would say, "Either you are right or I am."

Sulfas Help Bright's Disease Caused by Acute Infections

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Nephritis, or Bright's disease, is a result partly of inflammation and partly of degeneration of the kidneys. It interferes with some of the functions of the kidneys.

Richard Bright, for whom the disease is named, was born in Bristol, England, in 1789, and was graduated from the University of Edinburgh in 1813. He was one of the famous men attached to Guy's Hospital in London, which is one of the famous voluntary teaching hospitals situated in that city.

His classic report on nephritis appeared in 1827. In it he pointed out the connection between dropsy (or edema), the presence of albumin (a kind of protein) in the urine, and hardened or shrunken kidneys. He even found that there was an excessive accumulation of a substance called urea in the blood of patients with the particular condition which he was studying.

Nephritis, unlike a great many other disorders of the body, is not really a single disease. It can come on without any apparent cause or it can follow acute infections such as scarlet fever, tonsillitis or pneumonia.

Just how these infections produce Bright's disease—and they do not always cause this difficulty—is not quite clear.

There is often quite a long time between the acute infection and the appearance of future research to discover the way in the first signs of nephritis. It remains for which nephritis is brought about and to improve the means of preventing this complication.

The trouble in the kidneys is not always the same. Sometimes one part of the kidney is damaged more than another. Sometimes the damage seems to be so slight that it halts before symptoms begin to show up.

At other times the condition may progress gradually over a period of months or years, destroying more and more of the functions of the kidneys. When this happens there is a constant worsening of the symptoms.

BURDEN ON KIDNEYS

A reader asks, if the drinking of beer has anything to do with nephritis. Beer alone probably can not cause a true nephritis, but if taken in considerable quantity, it throws an added burden on the kidneys, and would therefore be considered inadvisable, as a rule, for a person with Bright's disease.

It looks as though there will be fewer cases of nephritis in the future because several of the diseases commonly causing it, like pneumonia and scarlet fever, yield quite well to the sulfa drugs or penicillin. This hoped-for result should show up as time passes.

AS WE LIVE

Here's How Not To Get Your Man!

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.
No one, not even a man, doubts that a clever woman can snare any man she wants to get. But her tactics must be clever. That is why this young woman is making such a dismal failure in her attempts to get a man:

(Q) "I'm 32. I like a man very much but I don't know how to get him. I have done everything in my power but haven't succeeded. My girl friend and I try to go to places where we will see him but it does no good. I even went so far as to call him one day and make believe my girl friend's phone was out of order and asked him to deliver an important message to her. I was at her house and wanted to get him over. But he said he was sick. Less than an hour later, we saw him leaving his house and he didn't look sick at all. Do you know any other tricks I might use to get him?"

(A) No. What's more you are making yourself cheap in his eyes. If you were in your teens instead of your 30s, your tactics would be crude enough but at your age they are positively infantile.

No man likes to be pursued so obviously. It makes him mad and he resents such behavior. Even if he had liked you in the beginning, by now you have killed any love or respect or friendship he might have had for you. Even teenage boys resent being pursued and they shun the girls who use such tactics.

The little tricks you are using are so obvious that any grown person could see through them. Take that matter of the telephone call. Any adult should know that all you would have had to do would be to tell the operator that your friend's phone was out of order and the line would have been fixed in a jiffy. Why should you ask a person you barely know to act as a messenger boy for you? If it isn't too late, and I rather suspect it is, you might try being pleasant and agreeable when you meet this young man but don't use any tricks. Show him you can be dignified, sincere, and friendly without trying to get his scalp. If you can ever convince him that you are not pursuing him, he may start to pursue you.

If you have a problem about family or friend, ask Dr. Hurlock to help you. Write in care of this newspaper.

Lucille Gessner Speaker At Convention's Final Session

Miss Lucille Gessner who recently returned from another summer of travel abroad gave an intensely interesting and descriptive talk on "Europe's People Today" at yesterday's closing session of the Upper Peninsula Federation of Women's Clubs convention.

"No truer words have ever been spoken than in the lyrics of John Howard Payne when he said, 'There is no place like home,'" Miss Gessner said in her introduction. "I always did think we have a wonderful country, but like so many other people, I took it more or less for granted. Our necessities at home are luxuries in Europe, so after traveling from one country to another, I now realize and fully appreciate what we have in America. Our way of life and precious freedom are in danger and at stake today and these are the things we must keep and fight for, if necessary, even in our every day life, no matter what the medium may be.

Still Is A Struggle

"The European, of course, is still struggling to make a comeback and recover from the hardships and misery of war, but only recently it seems a depression has set in which is unfortunate and which will retard the recovery of the countries which were hit hardest. So far there is no explanation for this new development but I hope, for their own sake, they will be able to find a way out of the present situation.

"There is less talk in Europe today of the present conflict in Korea than there is in this country. Perhaps because they do not want to think in terms of another war after what they have already gone through, and after listening to their pathetic stories, I can hardly blame them. We, of course, do not want to be engaged in another war either, but we do believe in being prepared, rather than to be caught short for a second time."

Miss Gessner began her observations on the peoples of Europe in France, describing the personality of the French as a "strange combination of emotion and logic, generosity and miserliness, idealism and cynicism." She spoke of the artistry of French cuisine, the traditions of social behavior, the appreciation of art, music and literature, and the great love of country, which she added, she found throughout Europe.

Brief Travel Pictures

Continuing she took her listeners on brief but comprehensive word tours of Switzerland, "a country truly blessed with scenic beauty that leaves you spellbound," Italy, with its two sharp divisions of population, Holland, whose people are "industrious, clean, honest and dependable," Denmark with its kindness and gracious hospitality; Sweden, whose people are "strong individualists," Norway, and finally England.

In an interesting comment on Denmark, Miss Gessner said, "The American ambassador, Mrs. Anderson, is better liked than most of the men who have held the same job, and this is a country where the men pull the strings! But she has conducted herself so tactfully and so well that the Danes are literally crazy about her. The United States may well be proud of this diplomatic choice."

As interesting was her observation on the Queen of England. "The Queen isn't just the nice, pleasant figurehead many Americans take her for. On the contrary, she is the symbolic expression of national unity and her influence is tremendous. The man on the street regards Her Majesty with a curious combination of awe, reverence and simple affection. She leads a very active and busy life, keeps a rigid schedule and spends a certain number of hours every day in Parliament. Every paper, every matter is explained to her before she signs anything.

Patriotism Above All

"After observing these people of Europe," she said in concluding her talk, "one thing stands out most in my mind and that is the strong feeling of patriotism which is untouchable and unapproachable."

"Let us look at two little countries, Switzerland and Sweden, and observe that these two small nations have managed to keep out of war. They do not wait until it is necessary for them to go to war to defend their country, but their is the kind of patriotism which fights before a war is made necessary."

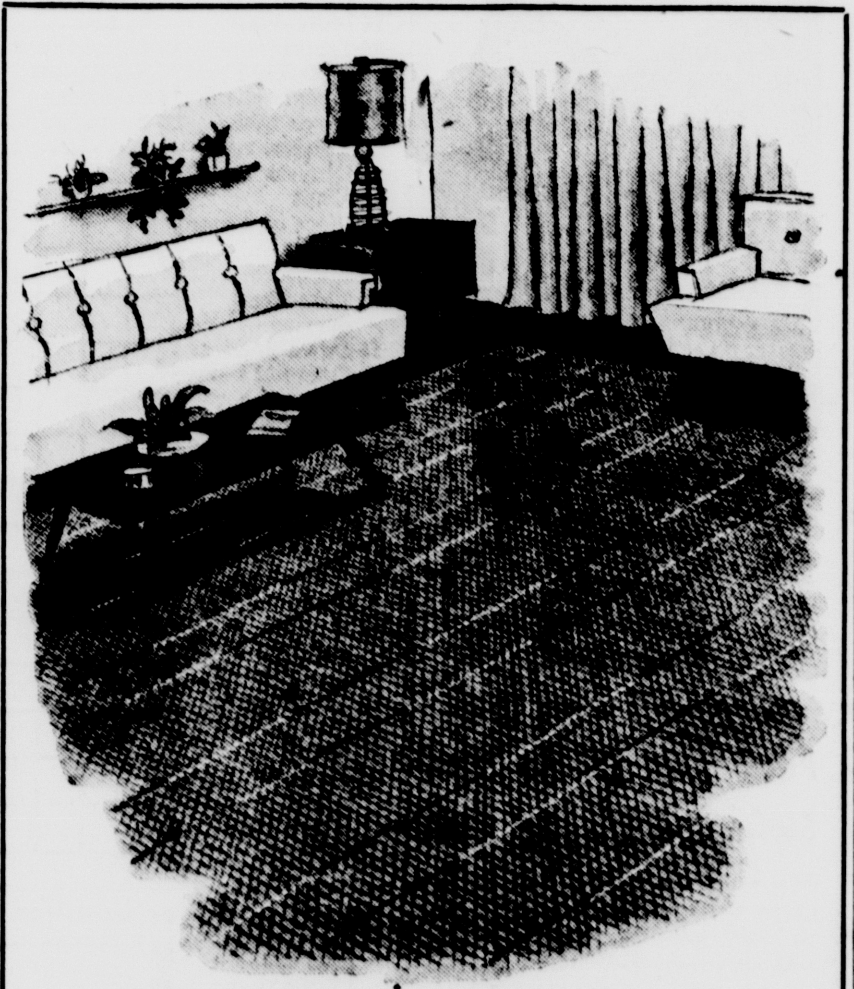

"We have the good fortune to live in the greatest country in the world which is our America, but in the future let us have a patriotism that will stand out and speak for itself. Let us have nothing but a one hundred per cent patriotism for all the world to observe. Let us open our eyes and direct our minds and intelligence into the right channels so that we may look forward to a future with a long and lasting peace for generations to come."

Politics Series Scheduled Here

The first University of Michigan extension course of the fall season, "Campaign Issues In An Election Year," will be presented here in a series of six lectures and discussion sessions beginning Oct. 10.

The course, co-sponsored by the Manistique Adult Education Program officials and the Schoolcraft County U-M Alumni Club in co-operation with the extension service, will run simultaneously with the presidential election campaign and will close one week after the election with an evaluation of the results.

The aim of the series, according to U. P. extension director Charles Folio, is to furnish interested citizens with a basic background and political facts which will help them to participate more intelligently in the autumn campaign and election.

Delivering the weekly lectures will be five members of the political science department of the University and one instructor from the staff of Northern Michigan College of Education.

Topics which will be covered in the series are: "The Labor and Civil Rights Issues," "Programs For Political Action," "The Major Party Platforms," "State Issues In the Campaign," "Improving Our Local Government," and "Politics, Elections and Citizen Participation."

Held At High School

The sessions will be held in Manistique High School on Friday evenings with the exception of the second meeting which is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 15.

Interested persons can register at the first course meeting or by calling A. F. Hall, superintendent of schools. A nominal fee is charged for the series and students may enroll at a charge half of the adult fee.

C. Olson Elected To State Body

Carl Olson, principal of Manistique High School, was recently elected a member of the State Forensic Council as a representative of the Michigan High School Forensic Association, marking the first time that an Upper Peninsula educator has been selected for membership on the Council.

He will serve on the board until September, 1953, to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of a councilman. Upon the expiration of that term he will be eligible for re-election.

In his letter of appointment, Hayden K. Caruth, manager of the Michigan High School Association, writes that "The Council has for a long time desired the services of a spokesman for speech activities in the Upper Peninsula... and further desires that their good will toward the experimentation which is now going on in speech activities in the Upper Peninsula be made real and clear to the Upper Peninsula schools."

Explaining in part their reason for electing Olson to the honor, the Council cites that "Even from this distance, your support of speech education has attracted favorable attention."

With one of the top forensic departments in the U. P., Manistique High School has won the Upper Peninsula debate championship twice in the past three years and has been runner-up two years in the past five years it has competed.

opening kickoff at 9. It is St. Joe's homecoming game and queen of the homecoming will be crowned in halftime ceremonies. (Daily Press Photo)

St. Norbert Unknown Quality For Trojans In Tonight's Clash

The St. Joe Trojans will be facing an unknown quality here tonight in their 1952 homecoming game with St. Norbert of DePere, Wis., Opening kickoff is at 9 p. m.

The St. Norbert team posted a victory over Chilton, Wis., in its first start this season. The club was not listed for action in last weekend's Wisconsin high school schedule.

One thing known about the St. Norbert team is not too heftening, however. St. Joe lost to St. Norbert 32-12 last year at DePere, and St. Norbert has nine men on its starting lineup who played in that game. The other two slated for starting assignments are juniors.

Final Home Game

The St. Joe team will be making its final home appearance of the season tonight and a capacity crowd is anticipated at Memorial Field.

The Trojans won their first game of the season last weekend whipping Bark River 38-7. In previous starts the Trojans lost 31-0 to Gladstone and 13-0 to Stambaugh.

Coach Tom St. Germain this week stressed offense in heavy practice drills. The Trojan defensive work in the last two games was excellent.

"The boys are ready to go," Coach St. Germain said this morning. "If we can get a scoring spark we'll cause a lot of trouble."

Close followers of the St. Joe team remember that last year the Trojans also lost their first two starts and then swept through the remainder of the schedule unbeaten. It's possible the 1952 team can duplicate that feat.

Homecoming Queen

Regina Beauchamp will be crowned queen of the homecoming at halftime ceremonies. The queen will be attended by a court of Mary Valentine and Carole LaMarche.

The Trojans came out of their victory over Bark River in good physical shape and Coach St. Germain will stick with his same starters.

For St. Norbert it will be Charlie Fiss and Joe Desorcy at ends, Ted Cass and Mike Smith at tackles, Jim Quinette and Jack Adams at guards, Tom Murphy at center, Arnie Baugnet at quarterback, Joe Pranke and John Gibbs at the half back slots and Don Anderson at fullback.

Officials will be Pete Berger and team from Manistique.

Few Changes In Football Rules

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Football fans have only a few major rule changes to consider this season:

1. Clipping, formerly applying to blocks made on the rear of a player from the waist down now applies to a block on any part of the back with the usual 15-yard penalty.
2. Definition of flagrant, unsportsmanlike conduct expanded to include use of elbows, forearms and hands locked to the knees or into fists, carrying a mandatory penalty of ejection from the game.
3. The passer may use his hands to ward off opponents as long as the ball is in flight.
4. The penalty for defensive holding is increased from 5 to 15 yards.

Workers Nearly Outnumber Fans

DETROIT (AP)—Did the working folks outnumber the paying fans when Briggs stadium recorded its smallest crowd in its 16 years yesterday?

Well, not quite. A total of 569 paid cash. An estimated total of more than 200 showed up at the stadium to do their duties.

Here's the breakdown:

Ushers, 20; guards, 10; concession workers, 20; ticket sellers, 7; turnstile men, 10; players and club house workers for both teams, 80; ground crew, 20; stadium staff, 7; newspapermen and Western Union operators, 11; scoreboard workers, 3; bat and ball boys, 4; umpires, 4; radio broadcasters and engineers, 5; and photographers, 5.

That's an estimated total of 206.

Two Unbeaten Ring Prospects To Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—A pair of unbeaten middleweights—Willie Troy of Washington and Randy Sandy of New York—meet in the 10-round feature bout tonight at St. Nicholas Arena.

The main event is scheduled to start at 9:00 p. m. EST. ABC radio and NBC TV will handle it.

Troy, 20, has not been whipped in 15 bouts. Sandy, 21, came out of the Golden Gloves two years ago and has won all eight of his professional fights.

Win Over Athletics Would Cinch Pennant

Today Flag Day For Yanks

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is flag day for the New York Yankees.

A victory over the Athletics at Philadelphia tonight will give Casey Stengel's men their fourth straight American League pennant—a feat in major league history accomplished only by Joe McCarthy's 1936-39 Yanks and John McGraw's National League Giants of the roaring 20s.

To try to wrap up the pennant and earn the right to meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series opening next Wednesday at Ebbets Field, Stengel will send the junkman of his pitching staff, southpaw Eddie Lopat, against young Harry Byrd of the A's.

Lopat, back in the groove after suffering back miseries during the summer, has won his last five starts for a 10-5 record. Byrd, beaten 1-0 by the Yanks last Sunday, carried a 15-14 mark into the game.

Indians Idle

There is nothing the runner-up Cleveland Indians can do about the situation today. They are idle until tomorrow, when they open a two-game final series in Detroit. Trailing by 2½ games the Tribe can only hope for a complete collapse by the champions and two triumphs by themselves over the Tigers. Such an outcome would throw the race in a tie and force a one-game play-off in Cleveland Monday.

Allie Reynolds, the strong-armed right hander, assured the

Ed Lopat Allie Reynolds

Yankees of a tie yesterday as he joined Hal Newhouser, another veteran moundman, in producing the outstanding performances of the day.

Sox to clinch the Yanks' 1951 championship. The pitching of the quarter-blooded Creek Indian was not of that variety yesterday, but he drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single to rack up his 20th win of the season.

Only 569 fans — smallest crowd in Briggs Stadium's history — saw the 31-year-old Newhouse strikeout eight, walk only one and pitch out of two bad spots in joining the comparatively small group of pitchers who have won 200 games. Only two other active pitchers — Bob Feller and Bobo Newsom — are in the group.

Giants Clinch 2nd

The only day game in the National League saw the New York Giants clinch second place with a two-run ninth inning rally that brought a 3-2 victory over the Boston Braves.

Relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm, taking over in the ninth from Jim Hearn, was credited with his 15th pitching triumph of the year and his second in as many days. Rookie catcher Ray Katt singled home the decisive run.

The only night game, like those played in the sunlight, was decided in the ninth inning when the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3. Billy Johnson's double and Solly Hemus' single accounted for the winning tally as the Cards scored their 33rd one-run victory of the season.

Upset-Minded Eskymos Ready For Menominee

An upset-minded Escanaba Eskymo grid squad is poised for action tomorrow night at Menominee's Walton Blesch field against the unbeaten Menominee Maroons.

Opening kickoff is at 8:30 p. m. (EST). Largest crowd of the Menominee trophy in 1948 by John Hinker of Menominee. It goes to the school winning the annual game each year.

Reserves At 4

Both Escanaba and Menominee High School bands will be on hand for halftime performances and extra bleachers have been provided to handle a crowd that could hit the 5,000 mark.

The Escanaba reserve team will meet the Maroon reserves in a 4 o'clock clash at Menominee. A 27-man squad will make the trip with Coach Steve Baltic's reserves, as follows:

RESERVED TICKETS

A number of reserved seat tickets for the game at Menominee are available at the activities office, at the high school. Deadline for purchase of the tickets is 10 a. m. tomorrow. It was announced.

Jim Beck, Daniel Boyle, Jerry Boucher, Ed Carlson, Wayne Courrier, Pat Coyne, Don Dahlin, Ronald Dufour, John Dulek, Bruce Farrell, Bob Ferguson, Dick Johnson, Dave Judson, John LeMire, Jim Meehan, Keith Moline, Jim Mongrain, Connie Prokos, Dave Satterfield, Dan Sundman, John Wood, Bob Zitzer and Don Anderson, manager.

Tentative starters are Prokos and Finn at ends, Coyne and Johnson at tackles, Dulek and Ferguson at guards, Satterfield at center, Beck at quarterback, Hemming and Judson at halfbacks and Dahlin at full.

Menominee Unbeaten

Others likely to see action are Dick Peterson, punter and defensive regular, John Jensen, Dick Hanson, Al Davidson, Gerald Nichol, Don Michael, Harold Martin and Bill LeMire. George Bartley is off the injured list and will likely see action on defense.

In Menominee the Eskymos will be meeting one of the recognized powerhouses in Upper Peninsula football. Coach Ken Radick's Maroons were undefeated in eight games last season and have three victories in a row this year.

Escanaba opened its season by losing 7-6 to Sault Ste. Marie and then tangled with Ironwood in a 0-0 tie. An open date last week-end gave the Eskymos two straight weeks to drill for the Maroons. Coaches spent long hours in pass defense and searching for a scoring punch.

"Everybody is in top physical shape and we've got a good attitude for this one," Coach Milokna said this morning.

At stake in the game will be the Hinker Bell trophy, a locomotive bell donated as the Escanaba-

Gladstone Lineup Revised For Game With Marquette

GLADSTONE — Injuries continued to hamper the Gladstone Braves as they wound up preparations for their game against the Marquette Gravaerets at Marble Athletic Field Saturday afternoon.

While it appeared that Capt.

Jack Holm, regular guard, and Lowell LaPlant, left halfback, would be ready for action, Ed Bunno, the other guard, is a doubtful starter, and Dick Ducheny, regular fullback, probably won't be suited on Saturday, Coach Don Plotenhauer said.

This means that one of the Brewer brothers, Don or Tom, probably will be in Bunno's place and Joe Corbiel, who worked creditably against Manistique will be at fullback.

Rod Kelley has been moved up to the first string to replace Frank Barak, and may start at center in place of Dick Lamberg. Harold Goodyer will be playing left tackle in place of Tom Peterson, benched by injuries for several weeks and Francis Rabbit will be at right end. Tom Moreau at quarterback and Norm Beauchamp will be at right halfback.

Blocking and timing of the Braves, noticeably off last week, has improved and the boys are anxious to atone for their one-touchdown defeat by Manistique last weekend.

Marquette will prove a formidable opponent for they have revealed scoring punch in several games and in addition have shown they have great defensive strength.

Sunday Last Chance For Trap Shooters

The Sand Point trap shoot will give hunters their last opportunity to sharpen up shooting eyes Sunday morning from 9-12.

Anyone interested is welcome to shoot. Ammunition is available at the traps.

Favor Spartans Over Michigan On Saturday

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Michigan collides with Michigan State's unbeaten powerhouse here Saturday in a season-opening bill that rates as the No. 1 football attraction in the land.

The MSC Spartans, bidding for their 16th consecutive victory over three seasons, were favored by one to three touchdowns for the game, scheduled at 2 p. m. before a sellout crowd of 97,239 fans.

And holding the key positions on both teams were newcomers to football prominence, whose performances may well decide the contests.

Burden On Yewic

The Spartans, ranked at the top of the Associated Press pre-season poll of sports writers, placed their heavy burden on the shoulders of Tom Yewic, who substituted in 1951 for the graduated Al Dorow.

For Michigan, the big question mark was Ted Kress, a Detroit youth who has bucked ineptitude and injury to move into the vital

By E CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Autumn's annual madness, college football, swings into full stride tonight and tomorrow from coast to coast with every major team in the country scheduled to get into action.

Headed by Michigan State, the No. 1 team in the pre-season Associated Press poll, the big boys will flex their muscles against opponents who, for the most part, will not play dead when they show up.

State, for example, opens with no less an adversary than Michigan. The Spartans, who won't count in the Big 10 standings until next year, rule a two-touchdown favorite over the sophomore-laden Wolverines.

Like Rose Bowl

Tonight's action also is heavy with some intersectional tussles that will have a bearing on the final outcome in December. Southern California, which has pretensions toward the Pacific Coast Conference title, entertains Northwestern of the Big 10 — almost like a Rose Bowl game.

The result should give some indication of how serious a challenge the two schools can throw up against the favorites of the conferences — California on the coast and Illinois in the Midwest.

California and Illinois, incidentally, appear to have easy tasks. are prohibitive favorites to trounce

Missouri and Illinois goes against Iowa State, which proved that it could score when it lashed South Dakota State last week.

Princeton Favored

From an audience standpoint, the big one will bring together a pair of old Ivy League rivals — Princeton and Columbia — in New York. The game will be the weekly televised contest of the NCAA's throughout the country except in the Philadelphia area, which will show the Penn-Notre Dame fray.

Princeton, which owns the longest winning streak among the major colleges — 22 games — will be the choice.

Texas and Kansas will be out to prove their opening of last week over Louisiana State and Texas Christian, respectively, were no flukes. The Longhorns meet North Carolina, always a toughie, and Kansas tackles Santa Clara.

Defending Champ

Texas Christian, the defending champion in the Southwest Conference and the favorite to win it again will be tested against UCLA. The Horned Frogs don't figure to lose two in a row, but if they do, Texas probably will take over the favorite's post.

But then that loop is so unpredictable that the No. 1 team changes every week.

Kansas' victory over TCU came as a surprise and if the Jayhawks look good again, they might make it a fight with Oklahoma for the Big Seven championship. The Sooners play the University of Colorado, which should present no problem.

The nation's sports writers and sportscasters voted the University of Maryland the No. 2 team before the season started but on the basis of the Terrapins' last-ditch 13-10 win over Missouri, it's doubtful if they'd be accorded the same spot if another poll were taken now. They will be out to regain their lost prestige against Auburn.

GT Warm Up

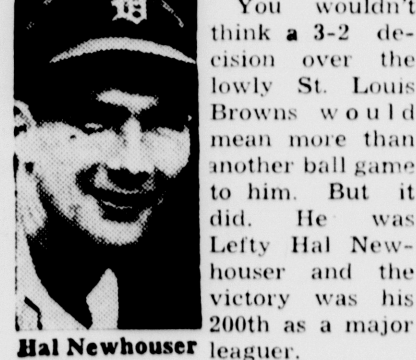

Georgia Tech, another powerhouse, and probably the best team in the South, warms up against Florida. Tennessee, which finished on top of the heap last year and would like to debate the Engineers' claim to the No. 1 team in Dixieland, plays Mississippi State.

Other major games: Tonight Boston college vs. Richmond, Boston U. vs. Syracuse, Detroit vs. Wichita, U. of Miami (Fla.) vs. UMT, Southern Methodist vs. Duke, Temple vs. Albright. Tomorrow — Alabama vs. LSU, Arizona State (Tempe) vs. Colorado A & M. Army vs. South Carolina, Bucknell vs. LaFayette, Cincinnati vs. Kansas State, Clemson vs. Villanova, Cornell vs. Colgate, Georgia vs. Tulane, Holy Cross vs. Dartmouth, Kentucky vs. Mississippi, Navy vs. Yale, North Carolina State vs. George Washington and Ohio State vs. Indiana.

Newhouser Posts 200th Mound Win For Tigers

A. F. MAHAH Jr.

DETROIT (AP)—The three Detroit rookies who knocked in the necessary runs weren't the happiest fellows on the field. He was a tall, lean guy of 31 who was pitching in the majors when they were in grade school.

Hal Newhouser

"I'm sure," Hal said hours afterwards, "that's one of the greatest thrills that can come to a pitcher."

Only 54 other pitchers in all major league history ever won 200, and only two of them still are around. They are Bob Feller, who broke in only three years earlier with the Cleveland Indians, and the indestructible 43-year-old Bobo Newsome, who threw his first major league pitch back in 1929.

9-9 Record

Yesterday's 3-2 verdict over the seventh-place Browns gave Newhouser only a 9-9 record, compared with 29-9 in 1944, 25-9 in 1945, 26-9 in 1946 and an 18-11 record as late as 1949.

But it came to a fellow who thought before the season started he might never again pitch. A sore arm plagued him all last season, when he turned in a 6-6 record. He wasn't sure it ever was going to come around.

The arm, however, came around. But the rest of the Tigers didn't and they're finishing in the cellar for the first time in Detroit's major league history.

Hal says his arm has "felt wonderful" since the first start in the third game of the season, but when a reporter surmised "that mean" you'll be ready and rarin' to go next year," Newhouser hedged: "Let's wait and see what happens."

Maybe he's thinking about contract-time again. He got clipped the legal limit of 25 per cent on his last one: from around $45,000 to around $35,000. Despite one of his greatest thrills, he still didn't do any better than break even again.

Likes Littlefield

But he's still one to give a helping hand to a fellow pitcher. "When I saw Dick Littlefield going out there," he said, "I knew if I got two or three runs to work on I'd be lucky."

Hal likes the left-handed, scatter-armed youngster who looks much like Newhouser did when he also went up from the Detroit sandlots.

What did Newhouser think of his stuff against the Browns?

"It seemed pretty good. But I didn't have as much as I had the last two or three starts."

Besides his own six-hit pitching, Newhouser owes victory No. 200 to Rookies Russ Sullivan, Harvey Kuenn and Bill Tuttle.

Sullivan, a sixth grader when Newhouser started pitching for the Tigers in 1939, drove his third homer of the month into the stands in the fifth. Kuenn, a third grader in 1939, doubled Tuttle home from second in the sixth to make it 2-0. Then in the seventh, Tuttle, a 1939 fourth-grader, drove a fly to deep right to score what proved to be the winning run.

New Heavyweight Champ Came From Humble Home

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of three articles on Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano.

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Like most boxing champions, Rocco Marchegiano, better known as Rocky Marciano, heavyweight champion, comes from a humble home.

Born on Sept. 1, 1924, Rocky is

QUESTION: The Cardinals were playing the Giants at the Polo Grounds, Wes Westrum, catching for New York, stumbled and fell dashing into the Red Bird's dugout after a foul ball, but held on to it. He regained his feet in time to nab Stan Musial, trying to advance from first to second after the catch.

In Pittsburgh, a few days later, the Dodgers' Roy Campanella went into the Brooklyn dugout to catch a high foul, threw to second base ahead of Ralph Kiner, trying to advance after the catch.

Musial was declared safe, Kiner out. Why?—Ned Brown.

Answer: When a catcher, or any defensive player, falls down in a dugout or into the stands in making a catch, the ball is dead and runners may advance one base. Otherwise, the ball is alive.

the eldest son of an Italian immigrant who migrated to the bustling shoe manufacturing town of Brockton, Mass. Rocky has two brothers, Louis and Peter, and three sisters, Alice, Concetta and Betty.

His 58-year-old father, Perrino Marchegiano, was gassed during the first world war while serving overseas with the AEF. His mother, Pasqualena, is a short, stout, black-haired woman whose eyes fill with tears when she talks about Rocky.

Destined To Be Champ

Rocky was destined to be a champion. Shortly after he let loose his first holler as a 13½-pound baby, his father received a congratulatory card with the imprint of a pair of boxing gloves on it. The card: "Hail to the champ."

His mother didn't like the idea of Rocky being a fighter. She never has seen him fight.

A bruising football center and a baseball catcher in his pre-fight days, Rocky likes tough contact sports. He likes the attention he gets although he is very modest about it. He never has disappointed an autograph seeker.

"I like to fight. I hope to go on fighting for a long time," said Rocky following his knockout of Jersey Joe Walcott to win the heavyweight title after less than five years as a pro fighter.

Dollar Still Big

The dollar still is a big thing with Rocky although he soon may be a millionaire. He never had much spending money when he was a kid.

Now that he can have anything his heart desires, he still delights in ordering meals sent up to his hotel suite. He urges others to do it.

"I get a kick out of watching the waiter bring it in."

Rocky met his wife, Barbara, daughter of a retired police sergeant, at a dance in Brockton.

"I told her, 'I can't dance much.' She said okay. We hit it off right away."

His wife watches all of his fights. Although she expects a child next month, she went to Philadelphia last Tuesday to see him win the championship.

The champ and his wife are now celebrating his victory in New York.

Shortened Name

When Rocky started out as a pro boxer, Manager Al Weill told him it would be better to cut down the long Marchegiano handle to something more simple. He had fought once as Rocky Mack and that name as suggested along with Rocky Marsh.

"No," Rocky said. "Let's make it Marciano. At least that sounds Italian."

The champ left high school in his sophomore year to go to work. He didn't like to study and was restless in class.

He drifted aimlessly from one job to another until he was drafted when he was 18. That was the making of the champion. He began boxing while in the service.

(Some of the highspots of his career will be recounted tomorrow in the final article.)

His subject will be "India's Place in the United Nations."

Chavre's appearance here is being sponsored by the Hi-Y club and he will be accompanied to Gladstone by Cliff Drury, Detroit, associate secretary of the Michigan YMCA.

The Indian lecturer was born and reared in India and educated there and in the United States. He has lived with Gandhi and knows Nehru well. He has traveled and worked in Europe and Asia and spent a short time in Soviet Russia during which he met Stalin and other Russian leaders.

Stengel Still Worried As Yanks Need One Win

By JOE REICHLER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The New York Yankees were within a whisper of winning their fourth successive American League pennant today but Manager Casey Stengel refused to admit his world champions were in.

"We still got to win another game," the cagey old pilot declared, "and the last one might prove to be the toughest of all. No, I won't say we're in until those other guys (Cleveland) are mathematically eliminated."

Reminded the Yankees needed to win only one of their final three games with the Philadelphia Athletics to clinch the flag, Casey retorted.

Still Worried

"We haven't won it yet, have we? And don't forget, Jimmy Dykes (Philadelphia manager) is going to shoot the works against us. I hear he's mad at me, too."

They tell me he's going to throw that young phenom of his Harry Byrd, against us tonight and Sunday. Yep, those A's are going to be rough as long as they have a chance to finish third."

Stengel has no faith in the tail-end Detroit Tigers, who could assure the Yankees the flag by knocking off the Indians in one of their two remaining games with Cleveland.

"I can't depend on them," he said. "We got to do it ourselves. And I won't feel easy until we win one. I can't afford to let up one bit. I'm going with my best pitchers—Eddie Lopat tonight, Vic Raschi tomorrow night and Allie Reynolds Sunday."

"You know, we can still lose it. All we have to do is drop the next four—three to Philadelphia and one to Cleveland in playoff. It can happen, you know."

Mantle Is Star

Stengel, naturally, was joyful over the three-game sweep in Boston which assured the Yankees of no worse than a first place tie during the regular playing season. He was especially pleased with the pitching of Reynolds in yesterday's 3-2 triumph over the Red Sox and the hitting of Mickey Mantle.

Reynolds hurled an eight-inning yesterday to reach the 20-victory total for the first time in his 10-year career in the majors. It was Allie's ninth inning single with two out and Irv Noren on third base that snapped a 2-2 tie and broke up the mound duel with Sid Hudson.

Mantle put on a batting show that Boston fans will remember for a long time. The 20-year-old sophomore star smashed a home run, two triples, two doubles and a single, driving in six runs and scoring four in the three-game sweep.

"The kid (Mantle) has developed into a great player for me," Casey said. "He's been playing his best ball down the stretch during the past two weeks. . . ."

Grid Notes

CHICAGO (AP)—Most Big Ten squads held only brief limbering up drills today in final workouts for Saturday's contests. The high-lights yesterday:

Northwestern—Coach Bob Voigts named Dick Thomas as his starting quarterback for tonight's game with Southern California in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Indiana—Team trainers said defensive end Merritt (Red) Smith will be able to play against Ohio State Saturday. He had been on the doubtful list because of a knee injury.

Purdue—Boilermaker coaches concentrated on a search for a defensive halfback to replace Earl Heminger, out with a shoulder injury.

Ohio State—The Buckeyes held their final full-time workout before their opener against Indiana Saturday.

Iowa—The Hawkeyes drilled for two hours behind closed doors, getting set for Saturday's game with Pittsburgh.

Wisconsin—Two first string men, end Ery Andrykowski and safety man Ron Locklin, will miss the Marquette game Saturday because of injuries.

Illinois—Tackle Dick Miller joined the Illinois injured list and will miss the game against Iowa State at Champaign Saturday. He will be replaced by Pete Palmer.

On November 22, Michigan State and Marquette will play their 22nd grid contest in a series dating back to 1909

It's Too Late To Boot Chaplin

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—Charlie Chaplin is a delightful actor, they say, a veritable Peter Pan in his old age, and a man who has contributed much to the richness of our theatrical past. They contemplate handing him the bum's rush, now, from a land he has lived in for 40 years without condescending to become a citizen of it, since they have him on the high seas and can deny him re-entrance as an unsavory character, morally and politically.

I wonder that they bother, after so long a time. His illegitimate suit with some poor girl they eventually hounded out of Hollywood stamped him beautifully as a self-preening libertine and something of a cad. His wartime performance as a non-patriot and his constant association with the violent pinks make him technically susceptible to ban. But I still wonder why they bother.

We have put up with this pitiful little poseur and a great many of his nastinesses for a reasonable lifetime, on the strength of his wistful portrayal of pantomimic tramps, and it seems he has not lost us a war nor hastened the ingress of Communism by any appreciable means.

Silly Little Man

You may not buy his secret escapades of "protégés" or his widely broadcast court ordeals with disenchanted proteges he never bothered to marry, but actors will be actors and, Heavens to equity, Mr. Chaplin is an actor. He is rich, too, and we may as well keep him around for taxes. That is what he said during the war, you know, the last one which he deplored. He said he was paying taxes, and that was enough.

I think that Mr. Charles Chaplin, the aloof mime, is a very silly little man, whose talent is stereotyped and perpetuated by a legend which says we got to love him because he is so pitiful and wistful and can express great pathos with a quirk of a little Hitler moustache and a pair of flapping shoes. In anybody else these props would have been called burlesque, but we were raised to revere Chaplin and so he is praised accordingly.

He is actually in the exact position in our time of Jackie Coogan, who helped him along in the ancient "Kid." Chaplin hung onto his money, Coogan got film-flamed of his by free-spending relatives. Coogan has a bald head and no dough today. Chaplin has dough, but talentwise they are of a piece. They both had it once, but that was yesterday.

Late Persecution

A couple of successful Thespians named Imogene Coca and Sid Caesar can handle as much comedy, pathos and tender tragedy for a new medium and a new audience as old Charlie ever dished out for the flickering silents, for my dough, and they conduct their lives with considerably more grace. We are prone to maudlin over the old ones, and enshrine them for barely remembered performances. Chaplin has not really competed for public favor since my childhood. Apart from "The Dictator," which had to succeed because it knocked Hitler and Charlie looked like Adolf, his press-heralded independents for a couple of decades have been so much hay.

But this started out to be a defense of Charlie Chaplin. Unless they have found him setting fire to the White House or heading the cell which handles the theft of the A-bomb, I would say that persecution of him at this late date does us more harm than good with our little friends across the curtain.

You cannot logically whip him over the skull now, after open idolatry and lengthy condonation, without rousing a great hurrah's nest amongst the local liberals and the foreign Reds. It is just that much more fodder for distortion.

Once you leave an undesirable around too long, you eventually achieve sponsorship of him, and we have had Charlie on our hands for such a spate of time that he is part of the American scene. This is in the same sense that Paul Robeson is part of it, and that gaudy billboards scar our countryside.

Little-Peter-Pan, who used to prance before the mirror and thump his naked chest when he felt an attack of romance coming on, isn't worthy of putting us all in an uproar. He is a silly little man. Let him so continue.

Drop-Off Seen In Employment

Overall employment in the Delta and Schoolcraft County area reflected a drop of approximately 100 during the past 30 days, Whitney R. Dixon, manager of the Escanaba office of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, state today.

The losses occurred primarily in food and kindred occupations, construction, and service industries, Dixon said. Most were due to the seasonal nature of tourist travel.

Offsetting some employment losses were gains in the lumber and wood products industries and in machinery manufacture.

The outlook for the next few months indicates an increase, after which the employment picture will become quite stable, the MESC manager said.

During the month of August, 120 openings for workers were received by the local office. But during September, openings dropped to 64, which indicates a lessening in demand for workers.

The Escanaba office at present has openings for male workers as farmhands, office machinery repairman trainee, salespersons in sporting goods, telegraphers, salesperson for office equipment, auto mechanic and routemen. Openings for women are for cleaning women, housekeepers and stenographers.

For Schoolcraft county there are openings for waitresses, and in nearby counties for machinists and roofers.

The Escanaba office has listings of jobs available in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Individuals who are qualified and interested may contact the Escanaba office at 1323 Ludington street, or

ROADMASTER
CUSTOM BUILT BY BUICK

BENEATH that big broad bonnet is the reason for this headline.

It's a four-barreled automatic carburetor—Airpower by name—which has a way of gulping in what the dictionary defines as "a sudden blast of wind" when extra power is needed.

And the way this gorgeous performer can step out as this occurs is something you'll always remember.

For ordinary driving, two barrels are all you need—and two barrels are all that are working. They give you an extra thrifty flow of fuel for round-town cruising.

When extra power is wanted in a hurry—the "reserves" swing into action—feeding extra fuel and extra air in an ever-thrifty mixture, which delivers the greatest horsepower in Buick history.

This is one of many distinctions that endear ROADMASTERS to fine-car owners.

It's a car as rich in finish as it is in power—a car of expansive room—restful silence—level in gait—beautifully responsive to your mood and will.

And it offers the effortless ease of Power Steering* especially engineered by Buick to save your strength in parking and slow-motion maneuvers, and still let you feel a proud sense of command and a sure sense of control on the highway.

There's just one question we'd like to ask: When are you going to come in and enjoy the ride of your life?

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Optional at extra cost on ROADMASTER and SUPER only.
